

The AACA understands that cultural differences within society are valuable and should be preserved. As such, since September of 2012 Azerbaijani language and art classes have been opened living in Houston for small children of Azerbaijanians as well as other nations who are interested in learning Azerbaijani culture.